Weird playwright Sebastian Sly lives in a creepy old mansion called The Shadows. His arch enemy is drama critic Sylvia Frye who hates stage thrillers. Due to her ruthless reviews, Sebastian was forced into retirement. Plotting revenge, Sebastian invites her to his home to convince her she's wrong about his work. When likeable innocents, Zip and Lilac, show up and are terrorized by the insane goings-on, Sylvia exposes the plot but gets hers in the end!

A wandering enchantress transforms a cruel and vain prince into a hideous Beast, leaving him only one way to reverse the curse - fall in love with another and earn her love in return. Belle, a beautiful book-lover, encounters the Beast when she arrives at his castle to plead for her father's freedom, ultimately trading her own for his. As tension over her imprisonment escalates in the town, spurred by Gaston, the selfish lover who seeks Belle's hand in marriage, the relationship between Belle and the Beast grows, leading to an emotional, and transformative, conflict.
